Y. M. C. A. BUYS
PROPERTY FOR
ITS WAR WORKOffice Quarters to Be Established at 1704
G Street.

The Y. M. C. A. has purchased the 4-story red brick building at 1704 G street, which has been repaired and renovated to serve as office quarters for the Y. M. C. A. war work council of the Washington district and also will afford dormitories for transients until they can be assigned to permanent lodging places by the association's housing bureau.

The purchase price of this property was $15,000. In addition the association has acquired the property between 1704 G street and the boys' department, now occupied by a livery stable, for which $25,000 was paid. Thus the association now owns all the property from the alley adjoining the Labor Department building to Eighteenth street.

War Work Council Offices.

The two lower floors of 1704 G street will be occupied shortly by the offices of the war work council for this district. On the first floor will be the office of the business director, S. T. Allen, who will be in general charge of office management. He will have two assistants. There will be a waiting room for callers, a supply room and cloak room on this floor, and the building will have a telephone exchange.

In the rear room of the first floor will be the headquarters of women's recruiting work, which will be in charge of Mrs. Robert E. Strawbridge, Mrs. Frank E. Noyes and Mrs. J. Norman Powell.

On the second floor will be the construction department, now in charge of C. W. Bier, of Pittsburgh, who will direct building and repair work on all association structures in this district. Dr. Paul R. Hickok, religious work director, and Dr. D. E. Yarnell, associate general secretary, in charge of activities, will have offices on the second floor. There will also be located there D. E. Miller, associate general secretary for this district, and Charles Ramsey, in charge of personnel.

There will be an information bureau.

W. S. S. OWNERS MAY
RECORD THEM AT P. O.

Protects Against Loss or Destruction of Cards.

Owners of war saving stamps are urged by Chairman Calahan of the District War Savings Committee to register their war savings certificates as rapidly as they are filled with the 15 stamps. This protects the owner against loss of the card or its destruction. Registration may be made at any postoffice of the first, second or third class, and there is no charge made for this service. Each card bears spaces for the insertion of 15 stamps of the maturity value of $5 each, as well as a serial number and a space for the postoffice registration.

Franklin K. Lane Forgot
He Was 54 Yesterday,
But Someone Told Him

Secretary of the Interior Franklin K. Lane had to be told yesterday that it was his birthday—fifty-four. Mr. Lane and the family, who usually remind him of such things, are out of the city. But for the circumstances of his birthday, Secretary Lane might be regarded as a possibility for the Presidency one of these days. It happens, however, that he was born year Charlotte, Prince Edward Island, Canada, whereas the Constitution of the United States says none but the native born may aspire to the Presidency.

Was Never a Boy, But Is Now Juvenile Judge

This is a little story of Bad Boyhood, which never really happened, and yet which is always happening, and of Judge K. Sellers, who as President Wilson's personal appointee to the District of Columbia Juvenile Court, will administer to misdirected young humanity.

For purpose of illustration, therefore, observe one Daniel Webster Gottlieb, alias "Make the Sparrow" standing before the bar of justice.

Mike, you should know, is 10 years old. He is alleged to be energetically and exceedingly incorrigible. He pleads guilty automatically and unanimously—shifty eye, uncombed head and a tendency to dodge.

"These things they say about you, Daniel," remarks Judge Sellers, "are they true? They say you threw mud on Mrs. Smith's wash line, which is very wrong, Daniel. And they say you smoke cigarettes, which is worse. What have you to say for yourself?"

Mike's eye darts to the bench, then away again.

"All the kids smoke coffin nails," he says briefly.

"Not the kind of little boy that grows up to be President," reminds Judge Sellers.

"Huh! Howdju know? You never was a boy?"

That's all about Mike in this story. Mike, the opportunist, doesn't exist, but the point he raises does, and with it the problem of incorrigible.

The fact, as stated, is that Judge-elect Katherine Sellers never was a boy. She will acknowledge this. And out in Marysville, Ohio, her home town, they will tell you that she was a model girl—the head of her class, brilliant, refined, sheltered.

"I think," says Judge-elect Sellers.

"I know the soul of a boy. I have brought up two sets of nephews and nieces, and I should have an insight into the development of both sexes."

The understandings comes from a love and study of childhood, never neglected during the uncommonly busy career of Miss Sellers, who is a professor of the Washington College of Law, a member of the bar and library of the Carnegie Peace Endowment. She has lived in Washington since 1881, coming here from Marysville.

REBUILDING OF

BELGIUM NOW

BEING PLANNED

Establishment of University
Accomplished Near Battle Line.

Paris, July 15.—In the southwestern corner of Belgium, where its little army is valiantly holding its strip of land against the Hun hordes, Belgian soldiers and refugees are laying the ground for the re-occupation of their lands.

Entire villages have been planned and laid out with the help of the Red Cross, and schools for the young who are to rebuild the nation are in every hamlet.

The latest and most striking accomplishment of these Belgians is the establishment of a university right at the front for the benefit of the soldiers.

The university has all modern appliances; chairs, heat, electric light.

At present courses are being given in rhetoric, poetry, modern languages and courses for candidates for the degrees in philosophy and literature. Engineering courses will soon be added.

It took weeks of search before competent professors could be engaged. Many of them held responsible positions in the army and could not be relieved from duty.

A soldier who is eligible for a course and anxious to follow it is detached and sent to live at a unit maintained near the university. He stays there in his course is completed and then returns to the front. At present there are more than 200 students taking advantage of the courses.

AERO REPORT, READY
SOON, TO O. K. LIBERTY

The aviation subcommittee of the Senate Military Committee hopes to make a report next week upon the investigation it has been conducting for some time.

A portion of the report will concern the Liberty motor. It is understood the committee will give the motor its official O. K., the only criticism being that the engine is not adapted to enough types of airplanes. It is being used with great success in observation and bombing planes, but not in combat fliers, a committee member said.

The same committee member said that up to this time about 500 fighting planes made in this country were either on their way to Atlantic ports, crossing the ocean, or in France.

ARREST NINE
BOOTLEGGERS
OVER SUNDAYPolice Also Take 75 for Drunkenness—Many Cases Pend.

Between Saturday and Sunday nights, seventy-five persons were arrested by the local police for being intoxicated, while nine bootleggers were the toll for the same period.

Of those thus gathered in the meshes of the law, twenty-four of the seventy-five drunks forfeited their bail, while the others were fined in sums ranging from $10 to $25, when arraigned before Judge Harrison in the Police Court.

One of the four liquor vendors arraigned in the police court yesterday morning demanded a jury trial, while the others entered demurrers to the complaints against them. The other five will come up for consideration later. All have entered pleas of not guilty.

Three alleged bootleggers were arrested Saturday by the "liquor squad," under Lieut. Pierson, of the Second precinct. They were taken at 34 M street northwest, and gave the names of Mary E. Holahan, Michael Munroe and Leo J. Vaughan.

Asst. Lieut. Pierson in this raid were City Detectives J. O. E. Gray and Cox, Sgt. Burke and Policeman D. J. Cullinane.

At the present, bootleggers are being arrested much faster than they are brought to trial, and efforts will be made this week by prosecuting officers in both branches of the police court to dispose of the many cases now congesting the calendar.

Fully thirty-three cases are now awaiting disposition in the District branch of the court, while seven charged with selling liquor to soldiers are to come up for trial in the United States branch.

MILITARY FUNERAL
FOR GEN. DAVISFull Honors to Former Governor of Canal Zone at Burial.

Funeral services, with full military honors, for Maj. Gen. George W. Davis, U. S. A., retired, formerly governor general of the Canal Zone, who died at his apartment in the Connecticut, Friday night, following an illness of several months, were held yesterday from his home. The services were conducted by Rev. M. Cooper, of St. Matthews Church.

Participants were Gen. E. H. Crowder, Gen. S. B. M. Young, Gen. James A. Buchanan, Gen. William C. Gorham, Gen. Frederick B. Abbott, Gen. William Crozier, Gen. Theodore Schwann and Gen. James A. Allen. A troop of cavalry escorted the body from the residence to Arlington.

Gen. Davis fought in the civil war, enlisting in the Connecticut Infantry in 1861. He was discharged in 1862 and was made first lieutenant in the Eleventh Connecticut Regiment in the same year. In 1888 he was commissioned captain and was made brigadier general in 1901. He became a major general in 1902.
